Dear Jane,

I am enamored to be au fait of our continued surmounting of digital correspondence such as automatic spelling-check and text formatting. As a weak speller myself, I always find it superlative when other individual(s) misspell the same word incorrectly more than once in a volume, that was actually my "special talent" in fourth grade, so feel I am in good company. Especially professional correspondence, it qualifies quantities for the author(s) attention to an agenda and value of the results. I can only imagine if it was a superior at the bank office that received such generous typos in indecency. I am relieved that it is only me so no disciplinary action would need be taken by the higher ups.

I feel I have to ask, is there anyone else writing to me through these correspondence emails by copy/paste text or anything else like that at the bank, Jane? Because I know some people there and have met with Bar Harbor executives before. It's important to me to know whom I am in communication with as it pertains to our correspondence on this professional matter. As some of the emails contained no authorship in the body of the correspondence and appeared copy/pasted.

So, it has been stated that I never had any Trust activity at Lake Sunapee Bank, now Bar Harbor Bank. That's the end of my investigation into the issue. I appreciate your time, reliance and forthcoming informative correspondence. As an aside, in the future, am I still allowed to continue to be a customer at Bar Harbor Bank for a car or home loan for instance, or should I find banking services elsewhere, permanently, Jane? Effectively banned from the bank. Because I made a 146% return on the buyout in the Stock Market when the purchase went through and liquidated my position, I don't want any issues arising if that's the future for us. Two Tellers were swearing and shouting in my face "Tyler! Tyler! Tyler!" over and over again in my face, and I even had to ask for them to return my State Issued ID which they had apparently confiscated out of inconvenience. I felt threatened and I had to ask permission to leave multiple times or felt I had fallen somewhere between a trespassing call or having fled the scene of some sort of conflict disturbance underway. I wouldn't have been surprised if the Tellers threw hot coffee at my Versace tie.

Thankfully, the Tellers dulcified their hostility towards me and verbally made approval of my request to egress. I just want to make sure we are on the same page for the future.

Thanks

Sorry, one final word..... I realize there are spelling errors with your name in my emails; I apologize and attribute this to spell check.

Rest assured that all investigation was performed using the name Tyler Hanslin.

Hello Jane,

I didn't see this email until now. I went into the Concord branch yesterday and was berated with shouting and profanity by the staff, then told to leave and hire an attorney.

It has been two full days with no update about Trusts from 'the Lake Sunapee days.' You said you were not sure what I was looking for, but I left three specific inquiries and numbered them, so that's an interesting response.

I'm not going to reiterate them all here again. Let's just say, I'd like a list of all past and present Trusts, ect. (they are from Lake Sunapee days) to which 'I (Tyler Hanslin) am the Beneficiary.' Or written confirmation from you that there is none, using that same exact phrase, not the milk-toast phrase you sent, and historical activity documents on the past Trusts which were closed.

In particular, a TSH Irrevocable Trust that I believe was notarized fraudulently with my signature present in June, 2006 at Lake Sunapee Bank. There may be more Trusts that were supposed to go to me in 2000 I was not notified about like TSH Trust, which are being fraudulently managed at this time. And I am told by the bank to provide a list of death certificates of possible Trustees before the bank would acknowledge Trusts with me as Beneficiary.

I am making this a legal matter now.

Thank you

Tyler Hanslin

Good morning, Mr. Hansil.

Your inquiry on the BHWM website has been forwarded to me for research.

Upon a quick investigation this morning through available records, I can find no record of any Trust in the name of Hanslin.

Records of trusts opened at the former Lake Sunapee Bank need to be researched, and I'm not positive what you are looking for exists, especially as you say they have been closed. This research may take a bit more time. As such, coming to the Concord office without an appointment would not be appropriate. An appointment is necessary, but not until we can confirm that we can provide you with some information.
